

5 numbers that matter right now.

Most "Colorado market" headlines are Denver data.

The mountains are a different animal.

SWIPE →

190

ACTIVE LISTINGS — A 12-MONTH HIGH

Up from 130 in January — a 46% climb in six months. Buyers finally have something they haven't had in years: choice.

$772K

BETWEEN WHAT SELLERS ASK AND BUYERS PAY

Median asking price: $3.0M

Median sold price: $2.2M

That's a 26% gap — the clearest signal in this entire report. Pricing to last year's market is the fastest way to sit on the market this year.

103

AVERAGE DAYS ON MARKET

In April it was 60 days. It has climbed every month since.

Homes aren't failing to sell — they're taking nearly twice as long to get there. Price it right in week one or plan for a season.

04 · MONTHS OF SUPPLY

~10 mo

AT JULY'S PACE OF SALES

190 active listings. 19 closings in July.

Anything above six months is textbook buyer's market. Vail is comfortably past it — and most sellers in the valley still haven't priced like they know that.

$4.8M

AVERAGE SALE — VS. $2.2M MEDIAN

When the average more than doubles the median, it isn't one market — it's two.

The ultra-luxury tier is transacting on its own logic, largely detached from rates and inventory.

Whoever tells you "the Vail market" is doing one thing isn't reading the data.

BUYING, SELLING, OR JUST WATCHING?

The corridor, decoded monthly.

Luxury Resimercial™ — residential and commercial investment property from Vail to Beaver Creek. Real MLS numbers, no spin.

Charles Harrison

Epique Area/Growth Leader

FOLLOW FOR NEXT MONTH'S NUMBERS

Source: Vail MLS, residential, 12 months ending July 2026.